CENTS.

The references in the descriptions of the 1793 Cents are to Crosby's article and to Levick's plate. The '94's are nearly all different, but the great difficulty, not to say impossibility, of classifying them by any published list without a full set for comparison, has prevented me from making any references.

The collection of the old series of Cents was with Mr. Blanchard a specialty, and collectors will not fail to notice the generally superior condition of his specimens.

353 1793 1 A. bust with flowing hair, the last figure in the date indistinct, in other respects the obv. is unusually good, the impression being bolder than common: rev., "United States of Ameri.." the edge a trifle bruised, in other respects excellent. It is seldom that we see so fine an example of this rare variety: for reverse see plate.

354 1793 1 B, flowing hair; obv. blemished by imperfections in the planchet, but the impression is good; rev., chain, "United States of America." This piece is very little worn, the rev. is particularly good, and the cent would be rated as very fine but for the imperfections noticed.

355 1793 5 C, broad bust, with flowing hair; rev., wreath; edge with bars and vines, planchet a trifle rough, both obv. and rev. somewhat worn; very good; nearly fine; rare.

356 1793 9 H, lettered edge; good, rare.

357 1793 10 J, head with liberty cap; rev., wreath; edge lettered; from a perfect die; very good, and for the variety fine; rare. See plate.

358 1794 Uncirculated; in part red; the hair brushed only by cabinet friction; fine surface and color; a most desirable cent. See plate.

359 1794 Very fine, only a trifle circulated; a break in the die shows back of the head; the hair a little reeded in spots; very fine.

360 1794 4 in date touches the bust; fine; very scarce.

361 1794 Uneven date, the 4 below the line; almost fine; scarce.

DEALER IN

COINS AND MEDALS.

And in Prehistoric Stone and Copper Objects, American and European.

A SPECIALTY.

The sale, by auction, for owners, executors and administrators; of Libraries, collections of Pictures, Bric-a-brac, Coins, Medals and Antiquities. Will undertake the entire charge and management of such sales, including the preparation, printing and distribution of catalogues, attendance on the sale, securing and executing orders, and every other detail, including advertising. Having lists of all the principal collectors in the various departments he is able to reach directly the class of buyers desired with the least waste of catalogues and advertising. Specimens of catalogues showing style of work, sent and terms made known on application.

The convenience and advantage of this method of disposing of personal property are fully appreciated by all who have availed themselves of it, as all trouble is avoided, and as a rule better results are attained than by any other means.

Serious illness of the person who prices catalogues for me, has prevented the more prompt distribution of the priced copies of my catalogues Nos. 50 and 51.

Correspondents are earnestly requested to send their orders early, and to address me as above until December 8: after that date until December 15, care of Messrs. Bangs & Co., 739 and 741 Broadway, New York City.

Catalogues of this, my Fifty-second Sale, printed on heavy tinted paper, and illustrated with a heliotype plate, will be neatly priced as soon after the sale as practicable, and sent by mail to order for $1 each.

Catalogues containing the plate will be sent before the sale for fifty cents each.
